

State of the Pueblo

Jean Paine, President

We had a great Annual Meeting with Scott Marsh, John Trang and Jean Paine elected to your HOA Board. In addition, the 2016 Budget and the By-Laws changes were unanimously approved. Sadly, while we had a good turn out, it wasn't what it should be. The Pueblo is our home and it is important that we all participate so everyone can express their opinions on how the Pueblo functions.

A new procedure for the replacement of light bulbs is being introduced: Each street will have a light bulb captain who will provide us with a new bulb when needed. Light bulb captains will also be listed in the Committee section on the last page of every newsletter.

Light bulb captains:
Avenida de Pueblo: Terry Temple & Dan Bares
Calle de Adelita & Cerr. Adelita: Mike Rockwell
Ave. de Maria: Marti Greason & Olive Montello
Avenida de Posada: Jeff Soder & Scott Marsh
Calle Minera: Pat Weigand
Calle del Caballo & Cerr. Caballo: Judy Mott
Campbell Avenue: Jean Paine

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY: Thanks to our alert neighbor, Marianne Van Zyll, I learned that Tucson Electric Power is offering a terrific service, No Cost Duct Sealing. TEP contracts with companies to provide this service at no cost to the homeowners. Five of us recently had EcoSeal come check our ducts. Three of us had ducts that had over 50 percent leakage. After testing, sealing, and repairing our leakage is now in the low 20s. The other two houses were fine and did not need sealing. If you are interested in this service contact EccoSeal, LLP at (520) 904-2386 to set up an appointment.

Pools Chairman

John Trang

It was great to see everyone who was able to make it to the annual meeting a few weeks ago. For those who were unable to attend, I am very happy to report that the budget for our much needed Adelita Pool rehabilitation and restoration project was approved unanimously. Thank you all for your participation in this important decision.

We will be busy during the coming months making the final decision regarding which contractor to use and then regarding all of the details. As I mentioned at the annual meeting, we plan to schedule the project during the early summer months after the Minera and Caballo pools are warm and useable.

I wish to give special recognition and thanks to Jeff Mott for his hard work and years of service to the HOA homeowners and residents as a member of the pool committee. He has decided to step down at this time and will be missed.

And, thanks again to everyone for keeping an eye on the pool(s) near you and for letting us know when anything needs attention.

Hello friends and neighbors!

I was asked to divulge a bit about myself and background, so that you can get to know me a bit better.

I moved into the Pueblo almost two years ago now ... I love it immensely and hope to stay for a long while. I absolutely adore the neighborhood, and the community spirit that thrives here.

I am a Tucson native, born at Tucson Medical Center. I grew up in central Tucson. My mother was a legal assistant. My father was a landscape architect and owned his own business, "The Treehouse" landscaping.

His business fell on hard times, and in 1978 he took a job overseas; in 1979 the rest of us joined him in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia. He worked for Bechtel Corporation, building the now King Khalid International Airport, which is the Saudi airport for the Capital city to this day.

In 1982 I had to leave Saudi due to government regulations. I attended boarding school near Salzburg, Austria. Sadly, I am a deplorable skier ...

During these years, we traveled extensively throughout the middle east, Europe, and the Mediterranean. We returned home in 1984 and I graduated from Rincon High School.

I was a legal assistant for 18 years. I then started my own paralegal business. I was a board member on the Legal Secretaries Association in the 90's, in charge of charitable contributions and community outreach. I did a lot of events, and a lot of networking, which I found hugely fulfilling.

I then switched careers. I was a realtor for about 5 minutes. I then stumbled into a new role, and became manager of an Organizational Change and Cultural Integration program at a local RV dealership. I developed training and coaching programs based in cognitive psychology and adult learning theory. A heavy part of my role was event planning for huge customer events.

During this time, I also worked with Dr. Father Robert J. Spitzer, president of Gonzaga University at that time. I assisted him and his colleagues in opening The Spitzer Center, and developing the curriculum for that organization.

I then moved to Mobile, Alabama for two years. I worked for the University of South Alabama, Women's and Children's Hospital, in their Developmental Delay and Autism Clinic. I did event planning here as well.

As an aside, the smallest babies (twins) ever born in the world were born there. They were the size of a Sharpie Marker, and they survived.

However, after two years, I missed T-Town and The Old Pueblo too much. I missed our lovely desert, mountains, monsoons, beautiful sunsets, and Mexican food, so, I came home.

I have two adult children, and two grandbabies whom I only wish I could see more often! I am sure many of you can relate.

The things I love are: traveling, cooking, reading, swimming/water/beach/creeks, walking and hiking, the desert, exploring, philosophy, psychology, spending time with my family, writing, building my online vintage store, decorating and home staging, spending time with my dog, Sam, and seeking out excellent culinary experiences, food, and restaurants. I also love photography, though I am not really great at it ...

I absolutely love meeting new people and spending time with my friends. I am always up to something and it usually involves getting out there onto this big blue ball and having some fun.

That said ... I think you can tell I love to plan parties and bring people together for fun times and happy shenanigans.

Now that you know a bit about me, let's move on:

First things first: I hope the New Year is treating you well and that you are all enjoying the soon-to-start stage of spring ... I will return to the topic of 'Spring' in a moment, because at CP, spring means TAPAS TOUR!!!

Second: We had a hugely successful December Holiday Party. I was moved, and honored that so many of you attended. I was thrilled to be able to host this event in my home.

We had a great team who helped put all of this together! This was a perfect example of what I mean by the true community spirit that lives within Catalina Pueblo. Thank you to everyone who brought a treat, gift, and for your thoughtful emails and cards after the event.

Many of you asked for the recipe for the beef bourguignon, which is my father's recipe. I am happy to provide it – you may email me at dberlin@lotus33.com and I will send it to you. ☺

As a side note: based upon informal feedback, we now fully understand that wine is a must. You spoke, we heard! Going forward you can expect wine and beer to be provided. (This excludes the Cinco de Mayo Celebration – back by popular demand! For this event, we will provide Margaritas. Olé!)

2016 PARTY EVENTS!

Our TAPAS TOUR is back in full swing for spring! This was a hugely successful event last year; a 'walk about' happy hour house tour with appetizers and libations for all!

This year's Tapas Tour will be held on Saturday, April 9th, from 5:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.

The Tapas Tour is limited to three host homes. We are seeking three volunteers who would be willing to host. Here are the details:

The Catalina Pueblo Board will provide all beverages (wine, beer, soda and water); we will also provide each host with $150 to cover costs of food, for three menu items of your choice. Anything else/extra you wish to provide is fine, but the Association will pay $ 150 for food to each host home.

The Board will provide all plates, napkins, cups, and utensils as well. We will also help you set up and cook if you want!

While "Tapas" is a Spanish/Mediterranean term, your menu is yours to choose. But, small plates, appetizers, finger foods and such are the fare for this spring kick off. You do not need to make a main dish or full meal.

If you are interested in opening your home for this event, please email me at: dberlin@lotus33.com as soon as possible.

Spotlight on a Neighbor - Marianne Van Zyll

Pat Weigand

Marianne is truly a cosmopolitan member of our community.

She was born in the Netherlands in the province of Holland outside The Hague. She has one brother and four sisters, of which she is oldest. She continued to live in Holland through high school. One really remarkable aspect of school there is that every day, she and her friends went to school by bike, rain or shine. Even today, 75% of children get to school on bikes, which explains the general good health and fitness of the Dutch population (<https://bicycledutch.wordpress.com/2013/12/05/arriving-at-school-by-bicycle>). Hundreds of children going to school take the same safe route here. They form spontaneous groups, and the closer they get to school the larger the groups become.

In school, a second remarkable aspect is the concentration on learning multiple languages. Marianne speaks five languages: Dutch, English, French, German, and Spanish.

At 18 years of age, her travels began when she went to live with a family of nine kids for 1 year in Zurich, Switzerland. The members of the family were friends of her family, and her sister followed with the same family for the broadening experience.

Marianne always wanted to go to the US, and ultimately she was able to go with a known family as an Au Pair. The family resided in Colorado Springs, which was great since she already knew how to ski. Approximately 5 months later, she relocated to Tyler, Texas with this family. She expanded her horizons and got a different job in Tyler. She decided to apply for a visa to stay in the US, but went back to Holland to tell her parents in person about her plans.

She returned to the US, with the intention of relocating to California, but a Connecticut-based friend of her parents needed a caretaker for his sick wife and 4 children. She felt compelled to comply and deferred California. She was with this family for 9 months. While riding in the area, she fell off her horse and sustained a concussion. She recuperated with neighbors of the family, and the wife's sister was called to fill in as caretaker of the brood.

When she recovered, she moved to Flushing, New York, where she found a job with the New York Convention and Visitors Bureau, using her various language skills to full advantage. In time, she learned that the wife of the family she worked for as an Au Pair had died. Not long thereafter, she was surprised by a proposal of marriage from this former employer, who was 18 years her senior. So, as an adventurous 24 year old (with nerves of steel), she began a new chapter as a wife and mother of four children, including four large dogs that were also members of the family.

During the Viet Nam conflict, the family relocated to Torremolinos, Spain. Their first residences were a 4th floor walk-up and then a 2nd floor walk-up (lucky that she was in good shape from all that youthful bicycle-riding), ultimately followed by a home they built outside Malaga overlooking the Mediterranean. The children went to international schools. Later, the daughter went on to an elite secretarial school in Holland. Two sons went to a Spanish high school and on to the US Army, followed by college on the GI Bill. This left only the youngest child at home. So, after 8 years in Spain, the family headed back to Connecticut.

The weather there proved to be too cold for comfort, and at the suggestion of a friend, they moved to Tucson, Arizona in 1979. Life in Tucson unfolded over 19 years. Her husband passed away, and she began working locally in an upscale jewelry store. After her youngest son graduated, he started working for Ernst & Young, and later moving to Palo Alto to work internationally for Nintendo, via a 15 year stint in Michigan with Whirlpool. Her daughter continues to reside in Holland. Her second son is married and lives in Tucson, and the oldest son, also married, lives in Houston. She has no less than 10 grandchildren!

In 1998, Marianne decided to buy a house in the Pueblo. Her beautiful home is very comfortable and decorated with mementos of her travels. Marianne volunteers at The Arizona Cancer Center, where she has served for 23 years, first at a desk position and later, interacting with patients daily. She distributes goodies to all and engages the patients in conversation in their native language. A few years ago, she received an award as Volunteer of the Year, selected from more than 400 volunteers from UMC and The Cancer Center.

Over the past 3 months, Marianne has become active in a local drumming group. She loves the activity, the comradery, and the outdoor venues where they play.

Another passion is traveling. She has been something of a vagabond her entire life, traveling in the US, Mexico, Panama, Africa, and Costa Rica, as well as the places discussed previously. She continues to see German and Dutch friends living in Tucson, that she met 20 years ago, keeping her language skills sharp. So, when you see Marianne on a walk around the neighborhood, you can say “Hello” in the language of your choice.

The recent spectacular full moons found me wandering like Emily Dickinson in the night garden, admiring the silver and glaucous plants and black shadows. Planning and planting for this effect could be the ideal garden for the night-owls among us who read, write, listen to music deep into the night, or the sleepless who gaze out, awaiting dawn.

Monochrome gardens emerged from the early-twentieth-century practice and writings of Gertrude Jekyll, Vita Sackville-West and Harold Nicolson. The latter two developed multiple garden “rooms” at Sissinghurst, their manor in Kent. Some rooms were devoted to a single type of plant, others to a single range of blossom color, most famously Nigel’s cottage garden of verdigris and unfashionable orange, and Vita’s creation of a white garden. Nothing like these had been seen before.

These much-publicized prototypes spurred all kinds of imitations, experiment, and further innovation, among the latter the silver garden, which remains rare. The latter is sometimes called a moonlight garden, because of its effect under a bright moon.

Silver gardens are defined not by blossom color but by foliage color. In damp climate’s like Britain’s, they are difficult to attain, but are easily created in Mediterranean and desert climates, where many native plants protect themselves from the fierce sun with silvery hairs or a waxy glaucous coating.

To develop a moonlight garden, note first of all where the moon falls during your waking night hours. Like the sun, the point of moonrise creeps along the horizon as the year progresses, except that it is opposite the pattern of the sun, rising and setting at its northern-most points in winter and southern-most points in summer. As for timing, full moons always rise at exactly sunset, and will be overhead at midnight. Like the sun, the moon too will be somewhat to the south of the zenith; to get the benefit of reflected light, you will want to plan to look northward at your moonlight garden (or west if you are an earlier-to-bed person, or east if you are a pre-dawn riser), but generally not southward as this arrangement will have you looking at the shadowed sides of your plantings.

The best results for a moonlight garden are to be cautious of too much of a good thing. A garden comprised entirely of silver plants may be dull by day and certainly will be bland in softer moonlight. The best effect is to surround silvery plants with dark plants, seeking high contrast.

Think about form as well. Under moonlight, strong sculptural forms in silvery plants will look handsome against a dark shadowy backdrop. Consider compositions that combine columns, spheres, starbursts, paddles, even grasses.

Silvery shrubs will show well too, but it will take lots of large dark shrubs to set them off in the dim moonlight. Among bushy silver plants, brittle bush is a good choice because it does not become particularly large. Larger silver plants like Leucophyllum (texas ranger, etc.) and butterfly bush take great masses of dark plantings like oleander to set them off under the moon.

Don’t forget the rich array of night-blooming cacti, such as those often found in the Trichocereus genus. Blue-tinged succulents, and plants with pale blue flowers like cape plumbago can add daytime coolness and interest, and read as silver by moonlight.

Plants need not be your sole source of reflected light. Light-colored mineral materials such as rock, pavers and light-colored pots reflect light briskly. But be restrained with these; under daytime sun, silver plants look fine but the reflected light from inorganic materials can seem blinding.

February Calendar:

Continue to watch for frost; cover as necessary.

Leave frost-damaged foliage to protect lower branches.

Around Valentine’s Day fertilize citrus, fruit trees, iris, roses.

Prune dead, damaged and crossed branches.

Cut away and remove mistletoe in garden and wild areas alike.

You may still pot up seasonal annuals for a few months of color.

Harvest citrus.

Plant trees and shrubs. Continue irrigation alternate weeks (monthly or less for succulents), less if rains are good.

Moonlight shadows are particularly beautiful, even mysterious, so don't overlook the possibility of the shadows of bare winter branches across silvery plants.

Gail Reich Makes It to 50

No, it's not what you think...

Gail received recognition on 1/18/2016 for participating in her 50th walk with "Meet Me at Maynard's" (<http://www.meetmeatmaynards.com>). You Go, Girl !

This health event occurs every Monday evening downtown, with the start/end point at The Hotel Congress. It is a nice, self-guided walk (or run, if you are up to it) around town in the company of others. For newcomers, it is a good way to see some interesting neighborhoods and architecture.

GET OUT and get moving
GET OUT with friends and family
GET OUT to support our community

Our neighborhood participants in the last couple of weeks have been Jeff Soder, Scott Marsh, Marti Greason, me, and of course, the very energetic Gail. There are many associated business promotions, and parking is free after 5PM. Check-in starts at 5:15pm.

See you there !

Tried & True Trades

As we start the new year, we felt it was time to update recommendations for Tried & True Trades. As you may be aware, in the past couple of years we've had almost a 20% property turnover. For the new folks, it may be helpful to get reliable recommendations for the work they are contemplating and frankly some of the old recommendations may be out of date.

If you have received excellent service from an individual or company and wish to share your recommendation with your neighbors, please email Connie, conniechurch313@gmail.com, or put your written recommendations in the Association mailbox at Adelita Pool - 6251 North Calle de Adelita.
